Lippencott Alpaca BAH

Chamber members enjoyed a truly unique Business After Hours at Lippencott Alpacas in Waynesburg. Two new baby alpacas (called crias) were born shortly before the event, and participants had the chance to pet the babies and the five adult alpacas. The five adult alpacas were the first to be raised in Greene County as a starter herd brought to the county by Lena and Philip Galing. Lippencott Alpacas features a farm store selling alpaca fiber products such as clothes, blankets and stuffed animals, and farm tours are available for groups of any size. Lippencott Alpacas is open Saturday-Sunday, 1-4 p.m., or by appointment. For more information, call Lena or Philip Galing at 724-852-4084 or e-mail lpgaling@cs.com.

Rain Day Hat Bet

Troy Polamalu, safety for Super Bowl XL champions the Pittsburgh Steelers, will bet his hat against the rain on Rain Day, Saturday, July 29, 2006. Polamalu will place his bet with Waynesburg Mayor Blair Zimmerman.

Hats bets have been placed with celebrities such as actor Will Ferrell and real estate mogul Donald Trump. The celebrity hat bets have helped to generate publicity for Rain Day, the annual Waynesburg holiday during which rain has fallen 109 times over the past 131 years.

This years celebration will feature live entertainment, food, crafts, games, and the Miss Rain Day and Baby Rain Day pageant winners. For more information on Rain Day, contact the Waynesburg Borough Special Events Commission at (724) 627-8111.

Scholarship 2007 Solicitation

After naming the 16th annual scholarship recipient this year, the Chamber now turns to soliciting donations toward next year's scholarship. The scholarship can only be made possible through the generous donations of Chamber members, whether at the Chinese Auction at the annual Membership Banquet or through separate contributions. Donations toward the Scholarship Fund will be welcomed over the next year, and the Chamber thanks all members in advance for their consideration.

Greene Academy Art Classes
